

Continuation of 09/204,430
Matthias Brunner et al

-17-

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for testing a substrate wherein a particle beam is directed onto the substrate and emitted secondary particles are detected by a detector and then evaluated. The location of the site at which the secondary particles are emitted on the substrate relative to the position of the detector is taken into consideration during testing.

09/977549 - 10450